EAST CAROLINA
GREENVILLE,

An aerial, black and white photograph of a college campus. The central focus is a large, multi-story building with a complex roofline, including several gables and dormer windows. To its left, there are several smaller, interconnected buildings, some with flat roofs and others with gables. The campus is surrounded by a mix of trees and open fields. In the background, there are rolling hills with a grid-like pattern of fields. The overall scene is captured from a high angle, looking down on the campus.

DEDICATION

This book is affectionately dedicated to the memory of Dr. Robert Herring Wright, the first, and, for twenty-five years, the only President of East Carolina Teachers College. He loved little children; he had faith in youth; he gave freely of his rich store of wisdom to college students; he inspired teachers to do their best work; he was an outstanding leader in the field of education in our country; he was a friend to man. North Carolina is richer and better, both intellectually and spiritually, because of the long years of unselfish labor which he so willingly gave in her service.

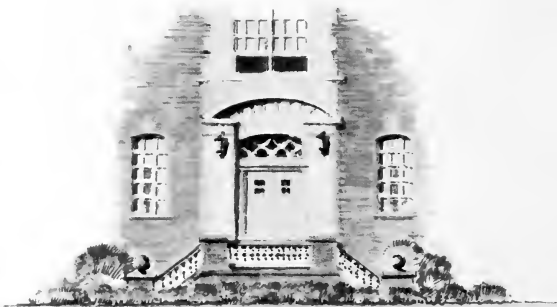

FOREWORD

Art motifs for yearbooks have been developed with the main objective being to add beauty and color to the books.

The 1935 Tecoa achieves this, we think, and in addition a far more important purpose.

To record much of the beauty of our own campus and college buildings that we may take them with us, our several ways, is an accomplishment that we hope will be appreciated by every student.

*I think that there was n'er alive,
A class as good as '35
A class whose aims and ideals high,
Meant "do your very best or die."
A class, who in a losing game,
Could boast the winning class to fame.
Our class is made of fools like me,
But its fame shall live eternally.

THE CLASS OF '35

IT was on September 29, that memorable Tuesday in 1931, that a few more than a hundred girls gathered from the swamps and forests of North Carolina and two or three of her sister states to board the East Carolina Teachers College bus for a four year trip through the Land of Knowledge. In this year of Roosevelt prosperity when one glance at our sophisticated seniors, one can scarcely realize that it is the same group of frightened Raggedy Anns who in the second and worst year of the depression dressed in the proverbial sock cloth, hand-me-down hats, and half-sole shoes, walked timidly into the door of the bus station. We—yes, I was in the group—tearful little girls with our flat pocketbooks had little more than our share of ambition to begin such a hazardous adventure in those distressing circumstances.

For two days after our arrival we wandered about, but our wanderings guided by a few upperclassmen proved to be quite profitable. We learned who Miss Morton and President Wright were, we found out the new meaning of the word co-ed, we forgot a little about home, Mama, and Johnnie. Soon the old girls were coming in, our guides seated us in the back of the bus, and a group of merry people we soon learned to respect as upperclassmen filed ahead of us. The seniors, occupying the place of honor, sat next to President Wright, our driver, Miss Morton, Millie Moore, and their helpers patrolled the aisles to see that all was in order and that no cigarette butts were around.

September 31, 1931 we were off! Those first few days were a little heart breaking, but soon we adjusted ourselves and became more or less independent. Frances Newsome was chosen as our leader, and she, working with the class, managed to keep us more or less entertained in those "off moments" when we weren't gazing out of the windows at the Land of Knowledge as we went flying through it. Early in the trip we had a delightful surprise: at one of the stops near Singville the Don Cassack Russian chorus entertained us. Just beyond the city none other than the prima donna, Amelita Galli-Curci herself hopped the bus and honored us with an evening's concert.

Since we kept no diary there's little else we remember about the first lap of the journey except that the world was turned upside down and that we were unhappy. Then, before we realized it we found ourselves one step nearer the driver's seat, and we were sophomores. Frances Watson succeeded Frances Newsome as our leader, but due to an accident it was necessary for her to leave. Katherine Hinson moved into that place of honor and guided us the rest of that year. The performance of Doris Kenyon, one of those Hollywood blondes, pleased us very much. Time was passing quickly, but one more moment was to come to us that year. Harold Kroutzberg came with his group and gave us a series of dances. Much to the disappointment of many he failed to include the Saint Vidas and the Carioca.

Then, to our Junior year—by this time we thought all the bumps, broken-in bridges, marshy swamps, or anything that might make our journey unpleasant had been passed. We were real upperclassmen now. Besides we had a lot of new travelers. The depression was still raging; therefore, many of our Meredith, Salem, and Duke friends joined us, and to the delight of some the number of "co-eds" increased. But in spite of that, this was to be our unhappiest year. When Ellen Baker, our new president, spied some thirty or more lonely children wandering about a school yard without a teacher, she yelled to President Wright to stop the bus, and allow her to remain with them. Her place was taken by Thelma Peel, who with Dr. Rebarker and Miss Williams, our class advisers, soon began to plan the Junior-Senior banquet, the Junior's formal farewell to their fellow travelers. Then a great tragedy happened. President Wright was stricken and in a short time died. No one in the great excursion bus wanted to go on. All banquet plans were dropped; our guides, the teachers who had been pointing out to us the places of interest, seemed to lose all enthusiasm; it seemed we were stuck in the mud axle-deep. Then, Dr. Meadows, who had held the road map for President Wright and aided him around every curb and across every crossroad, took the wheel in his hands, pulled the bus out of the mire, and successfully completed that lap of journey.

Now, we're at the front of the bus at the right of Dr. Meadows who has officially taken President Wright's place. Eloise Camp, the Ahsokie red head, is holding the band together. So far it's been a busy year: practice teaching, the Carolina Play-Makers, Football, Basketball, Senior Play, Carolina Glee Club (with all the boys to entertain et cetera). The end of the journey is now in sight. Now that we look back it seems a short time since September 29, 1931. We've traveled fast and have caught only a glimpse of the beauty in Land of Knowledge. There are yet fields untrodden, depths unfathomed, and heights unscald. But the little that we have seen has changed us, and you'll hardly recognize us when we step off the bus at commencement town on June third and receive our tickets of dismissals—our diplomas.

THELMA PEEL, Historian.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

WE, the Senior Class of nineteen hundred and thirty-five on the eve of graduation, do hereby make this our last will and testament.

To you, the incoming freshman class, we leave all our optimism and self-assurance and the patience to do your work through the four years of college life. We also leave you Honor—it is one of the fundamental principles of life.

To you Sophomores, our sister class, we bequeath our studious qualities and our Courage—mental and moral courage as well as physical.

Juniors, we leave you all our privileges, our intellectual attainments, and the happiness and hopes of a Senior. We also leave you ambition to live a life of worthy purpose and accomplishments.

To you, the faculty and officers of administration, we bequeath our gratitude for the memories we have of our years at college and for the efforts you have made to help us, both as a class and as individuals. To you also we leave our patience, to be used on the incoming Senior classes.

And to you, Alma Mater, goes our loyalty and the gratitude for our training from the carefree thoughtlessness of our freshman year to the more appreciative attitude of today.

Signed on this fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five, A.D., at East Carolina Teachers College, Greenville, North Carolina.

PRUDENCE BAZEMORE, Testatrix.

CLASS PROPHECY

Tarry Town, N. Y.
October 5, 1950.

DEAR PHOEBE:

Now that I am settled after my never-to-be-forgotten trip abroad, I want to tell you as much about it as I can.

As you know already, I have been saving money for this trip since my first year of teaching. It is needless to say that I think being an old maid school teacher is a lot of fun. It makes one feel so independent!

But I must go on. Just before leaving, I went by the Postoffice for my mail. I had a copy of the Sampson Independent! And Virginia Davis is associate editor. Glancing through it I saw that Norma Melvin had taken the telegraph agency at White Lake, and that Elizabeth Overton was the new athletic coach at Clinton.

On the train going down to New York I bought a New York Times. Something made me turn to the society section first and there in bold letters was the name Clyde Morton, Society Editor. Looking further down, I saw a picture which looked familiar and sure enough it was Margaret Staton, fashionable wife of the railroad magnet, Murray Hodges. On the next page was a picture of S. Elizabeth Smith, famous Broadway actress. I could hardly believe my eyes. I then turned back to the news section. In bold headlines were these words: "Murder Mystery Solved by Woman Psychiatrist: Elizabeth Carswell, New in Field of Criminology, Has Made a Name for Herself." I was too astonished to go any further.

When I got in New York I went straight to the Waldorf Astoria, as I had planned to stay in the city for a few days before sailing. When I went in to dinner, I had scarcely seated myself before Ruby Wall came to take my order. But I was not to be alone for long. I looked up from my plate and who should be coming toward me but Helen Boomer. She had a pencil and note pad and soon informed me that she was, a newspaper reporter. She and Ruby decided to show me the city at night. The first place we went was to see George White's Scandals, starring Rachel Hurst. After that we visited a famous night club, and who do you think was hostess? It was Stelma Vanhorne! And moreover, Mildred Pearson appeared as one of the very newest torch singers.

After a good night's sleep, or I should say morning's sleep, I was ready for a full day of New York City life. I went first to hear an educational lecture, sponsored by the National Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Pennic Keel Lang is President. The lecture was given by Mary Frances Holland. After the lecture, the President invited us to visit one of New York's best kindergartens. When we reached the school, I found that Frances Bowen was the director. There was an art gallery nearby, so I stopped to see a few of the exhibits. One of the newest and most outstanding was a portrait of Mary S. Robeson painted by Thelma Peel. After this visit I went to radio city, where I hoped for some quiet music. I was not to be disappointed. Clifton Crawford, chief organist, rendered a beautiful program.

In the afternoon I went on a shopping tour. Going first into a dress shop, of a large department store, I ran right into Constance Cheaves who, I learned later was head buyer for the department. In the shoe department, C. O. Armstrong, showed me the latest foot wear.

Deciding that I needed a wave I went into a beauty saloon, where Lucy Shearin proved to be an expert.

Never having been in the slums of New York City, I was interested to see what they would be like. So I went alone to see for myself. I had walked several blocks when I saw two people exactly alike coming toward me. It was Isa Costeo and Mailee Grant, giving their lives to welfare work.

I suddenly realized the day before I was to sail that I hadn't anything to read on the boat, so I stopped in a book shop. As I walked in I saw behind the counter none other than Mary Alice Brown. She greeted me with this: "You must buy Annie Rosamond Horne's newest novel. It is delightful." On my way to the hotel, I bought from a news stand a copy of the American Historical Magazine, of which Evelyn Turnage is editor. It is quite a good magazine, too.

Now for the sailing! The Ile De France was glorious. It seemed so strange to keep right on seeing people whom I knew. However, the first day on board, I met Ruth Moore and her young preacher husband on deck. They were going to Scotland on their honeymoon. The second day out I ran square into two deck chairs occupied by two familiar faces: Katherine Hinson and Eloise Camp were on their way to Indo China to go into the mission field.

The third night out, while dining in one of the select dining rooms, I saw coming toward me a cute little girl who looked like somebody I had known in college. It turned out to be Henrietta Crow, professional dancer on the boat.

The boat docked at Liverpool, from where I went straight to London. The first place I went was St. James Court where, much to my delight, Louise Powell was being presented.

Leaving England I went into Switzerland. Again I bumped into an old acquaintance, Martha Hart Peele, now a millionairess.

From Switzerland I went into France, Paris being the place where I spend most of my time. I found Lou Pitts creating the newest Paris modes, and Kathryn Hines modeling them. They seemed to be enjoying life.

I had heard so much about the French Courts that I was obliged to visit one. To my utter amazement Paul Fitzgerald was pleading a murder case.

Paris was a wonderful place, but I couldn't stay there always. The day came when I had to come home. How time does fly!

It seemed that I couldn't get away from people whom I knew. For on the boat returning to America I met Elizabeth Davis, who was traveling companion for the elder Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, May Hearne and Florence Sinclair who were returning from England where they had won the International Tennis doubles, and Elizabeth Clark, McCall's Pattern designer, returning from a French Designers School.

Arrived in New York, I had a strong desire to return to my Alma Mater for a few days before settling down to teaching. So I took a plane to Greenville. Who do you suppose was stewardess? Verda Wilson! And she informed me that Billy Tolson was piloting the plane.

When I got in Greenville I went to the college the first place, and Mildred Harrison greeted me in Cotton office. She is the new dean, with Betty Ruth Autry as her assistant. Mildred took me around to visit the different departments. Bessie Hinson is critic teacher now at the training school, Margaret Davenport is teaching Physical Education, Margaret Lee is instructor in Biology, Minnie Margaret Gorham is Librarian, and Alice Yancy and Helen Clark both critic teachers in the High School. Frances Newsome has been at the head of the Home Economics Department but she is leaving to make her home permanently in town.

Jan Garber gave a concert at the college while I was there, and Katie Lee Johnson is his accompanist.

Mildred Gibson invited me to visit her, and Billy in their cute little home, which I did. I also visited Helen Harkey, now married and living in Greenville, who told me that Mary Elizabeth Crawford is married and that Aubrey McLean is about to marry her employer, resident of the American Tobacco Co.

I got lunch one day at Nellie Dunn's tea room. I heard there that Bill Wright is selling automobiles on a big scale, and that Josephine Essey and Katherine Crow have a dancing school.

I stopped in at Pender's one day and Dan Jordan greeted me across the counter. He is manager now. He told me that Robert Fleming is making quite a name for himself as Professor of Bacteriology at Peabody.

On my way home, I stopped in Washington to see Prudence Bazemore. She is managing a lovely apartment house. She told me that Lucy LeRoy has become a very successful business woman in Washington. On my arrival here (Tarry Town) I found among my mail a Teco Echo. After my trip I thought there couldn't possibly be anything of interest in it, but I was wrong. In the Alumnae News I learned that Eloise Burch has gone back to Walstonburg to make her home—married, of course. Ida Mae Nance is teaching Math at Guilford College, Adelia Norris is teaching seventh grade at Milbrook, N. C., Melba O'Brien is married to her Carolina man, and Sue Sewell has recently been made a trustee at Carolina. Frances Watson is traveling secretary in the southern region of the Y. W. C. A., Janice Jenkins is teaching at Queen's College in Charlotte, Zoa Fannie Hart is head nurse at St. Luke's Hospital in Richmond, Kathryn Barnette is teaching voice at Greensboro College, Hattie Mae Johnson is doing Home Mission work in the mountains, Birdie Dell Lann has a Government position in Panama, and Mary Ella Bunn has married a chewing gum manufacturer.

In your last letter, I believe you enclosed a clipping about Dan Wright's success in Florida as a carrot grower. You also hinted to me that you were taking on more cafeterias on your chain. You certainly have been successful in selling food in Miami. Do you buy your carrots from Dan?

With love always,
EDITH.

SENIOR NORMAL CLASS HISTORY

DURING the age of chivalry the greatest ambition of the youth was to become a worthy knight, the greatest symbol of honor, justice, truth and bravery. To become a knight was very difficult and years of preparation were necessary. Young men received their first training at home; then they were apprenticed to a knight. To live with a knight was to be a page and after the duties of a page were met the page became a squire, after the squire was deemed worthy of the honor he was dubbed a knight, the highest rank of honor. The duties of King Arthur's knights was to search for the Holy Grail.

The training of young men and women may be compared to that of knighthood. From the home training to that of College preparation in bravery, high ideals, ambition and on to success. Chivalry is dead, but the spirit goes on and on into the open hearts.

PERIOD I

In 1933 Sir Education sent out knights into the world calling unto young men and women to enter the Castle, East Carolina Teachers College, Greenville, North Carolina, and work to fill the places of the outgoing knights. In order to distinguish these newcomers from other pages at the Castle, they were known as Pages "C."

On the day of registration they were given their duties under Commander English, History and similar decrees. The young ambitious pages set to work with the determination of soon becoming a squire.

A leader was necessary, and after many hours of testing it was found that Page Jennie Green Taylor was most fit for the position.

Feasting and frolicking together with work made the pages more gentle, friendly, and courteous. Many occasions furnished these pleasures.

Soon came Sir Initiation calling the pages to join the orders of honor, the Order of Lanier, the Poes, or the Emersons. Great was the excitement with which the pages underwent in becoming members of these different orders.

Many of the pages suffered from homesickness, and love sickness and gave up their brave determination and became builders of homes all their own.

On and on the pages worked and as time drew high many pages were given titles of "Members of Student Council," "Members of Y. W. C. A. Cabinet," "Marshal," and the like.

Sir Education called the members of his knighthood together and dubbed the squires as knights into his knighthood, which gave the pages much encouragement. And to the pages he said, "You must go on the errand, Vacation, and when this mission is fulfilled you must return again to the Castle and continue your acts of bravery."

PERIOD II

On September 27, 1934 the errand had been accomplished and Pages "C" returned and were given the name Squire "D" for they had served one year in Sir Education's Kingdom.

A new leader was necessary and Squire Louise King was given the place.

Soon the testing time came and each squire was sent on the errand "Examinations" was accomplished which brings forth the time for the dubbing of the squires into knighthood. Long has been the time, and rough has been the way, but now beyond the battle lies success.

PERIOD III

The year 1935 brought on its June day friends and relatives of the many squires to see them march in their festive robes to the chapel of the Castle. The noblest and best of all the knights, Sir Knight Meadows, was master of ceremonies. He called before him the worthy squires and presented each with a glittering word, a diploma, pronouncing him a Knight of Sir Education's Kingdom. In the Land of America the Knights went forth in search of Life and Happiness. In the heart of each stands the motto, "The Past Forever Gone, the Future Still Our Own."

SENIOR NORMAL CLASS LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA }
 COUNTY OF PITT } EAST CAROLINA TEACHERS COLLEGE
 TOWN OF GREENVILLE }

We the members of the 1935 Senior Normal Class of the aforesaid state and county, being of sound health and balanced mentality and realizing that our days of friendship and training at East Carolina Teachers College are near an end, do hereby make our Last Will and Testament:

ITEM I

To the school as a whole we bequeath all our intellectual attainment, originality, and personality, and our eternal allegiance and loyalty.

ITEM II

To the faculty, the members of which have toiled so patiently with us through our many trials, we bequeath the empty seats to be filled with our successors, trusting they will measure up to our standard of pulchritude and I. Q.

ITEM III

To our parents and friends through whose patient endeavor and kind consideration we have at last attained our college goal, we dedicate our love, sincerely hoping that we, by the achievements of our future lives may be able to reward them most graciously for their contribution to our success.

ITEM IV

To the Junior Normal Class who will take our places, we leave with the most unimaginable pleasures:

1. All rights and privileges which they will acquire as "D."
2. The pleasure of Practice Teaching made pleasurable by the many criticisms bestowed upon one by the eritic teacher.
3. The book, History of North Carolina, by Conner taught by Miss Davis.
4. Special permission to use the top stairs in Austin Building, Campus Building steps and between Library stacks for such purposes as several of our members have seen fit to use them.

Signed, sealed and declared by the Senior Normal Class on the third day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred thirty-five.

ANN BROOKS MCGOUGAN, Testatrix.

SENIOR NORMAL CLASS PROPHECY

Last night as I passed the fountain on my way to the Campus Building someone called to me. Turning quickly, I was about to answer when I realized that there was no one there; so, thinking that I must have been mistaken, I was about to continue on my way when the call came again, this time more distinctly—and, strangely, it seemed to come from the very center of the fountain. In bewilderment I stood there until the call came again, and I saw to my utter amazement, that it was the old frog on top of the fountain who was speaking.

"Wait," he commanded.

"But I have not time," I replied.

"Time, My dear, What do you know of time? Take a moment to stay with me and I will give you a glimpse of time—the future. Whose future would you know?"

"My classmates, if you please," I replied.

"Then," he said, "Look into the pool and you will see your classmates as they will be in 1945."

I looked and saw that:

Many of the girls are still in Greenville. Ernestine Parker is critic teacher in the fifth grade at the Training School. Julia Hildreth is also in the Training School, taking the place of Miss Thomas, who married the year we graduated. Irene Worthington is holding the position formerly held by the beloved Sara Sommerville. Her assistant is Olivia Martin. Christine Fowler designed the new Men's Dorm at E. C. T. C. of which Mary Credle is House Mother and Virginia Ellis, Lida Frances Dark, and Annie Crawley are maids. The old Co-ed Hut is being used by Madie Newsome for her pressing club, in which she employs Allie Prevatt, Sara Blue, Rebecca Pitt, and Arlene Parker. Orphelia Pierce, Rachel Bissette, and Elizabeth Boyette are the official inspectors for bedbugs and, Evelyn Bizelle is custodian of the smoking room. Frances Monk operates a non-stop air line to Wake Forest. Jewel Cozart, Mildred Faulk, and Hettie Bell Cox are pilots. Her most frequent passengers are Estelle Griggs and Julia Stringfield, who, by the way, is feeling very Jolly these days. Rebecca Pridgen and Myrna Lee Bell are still at E. C. T. C. competing for the attentions of Dr. Flanagan, but he is true to his only love, a former student.

And speaking of Kathryn Shute—hers is the haunting blues voice which comes to you every night over the NBC network through the courtesy of the R. J. Reynolds Co.

Virginia Harrington, Geneva Harrell, Virginia Hoffman, and Eva Hobbs have organized a 4-H Club all their own, only nobody can devise its purpose.

Hollywood! The city of broken hearts and E. C. T. C. GIRLS! Ada Hearne is directing our two Co-eds in a film called, "Too Many Women" in which William May and Hosea Ellsworth, the boys, are co-starring. Mildred Williamson is leading lady and Lucille Creech, Margaret Whitehurst, Mavis Lewis, and Glynn Hill are in a mob scene. "Sally" Johnson, Marguerite Dixon, Mary Nell Eaves, and Vick Mazingo are playing with Jew Horoe and Her Jazz Harmony Gals out at Malibu Beach. Dolores James is running a Hollywood beauty parlor and Lois Jernigan is running her mouth. In the beauty parlor Helen Eure designs eyebrows, Madeline Davenport makes wigs, and Floribelle Garner paints artificial toe nails.

Elizabeth Rountree and Esther Royster have compiled a dictionary so far superior to Webster's that Noah's Unabridged now sells for 33 $\frac{1}{2}$ ¢ the copy.

It is inevitable that some—quite a few—of the girls should be married. Here are Helen Davis (Mrs. Robert Musgrave); Hadilene Coley with Elliott, Jr.; Lottie Moore, the wife of a Kingston groceryman; Virginia Akers and Sara White—both surrounded by a gang of red-headed youngsters; Oleta Chamberlee, the wife of a crooner (could there be a worse fate?!); Enice Atkinson, Mrs. Willard; Hazel Mayo, whose husband sells autos; Hazel Monk and her Yankee husband; and Lois Leake in Oklahoma (Be it ever so humble there's no place like Oklahoma). Gertrude Parker is no longer "Baby" for there are now several little "Babies." Louise King and her dignified hubby are the social leaders as well as the "salt of the earth" it Littleton, where they are often seen places with Edith Glynn Gulghum and her fiancé, a successful broker in Tillery, N. C. Minnie has been married for years, and Jackie Strickland is, of course, Mrs. C. O. Margarette Stephenson is Mrs. Paul Somebody and Viola Smith is Mrs. J. A. Stanley. But little Margie Savage has 'em all beat. She has already had eight husbands and is reported by Lucille Raines, the gossip of the nation, to be engaged again. Her divorcees have all been handled by the firm of Mary Louise Robertson and Mary Louise Robertson.

But Mary Lib Barker sought for years to obtain a MRS., and, having failed completely, is at Carolina working on a M.A.

Dorothy Newsome and Isabelle Whitehurst are instructors in the art of Gum Chewing at Euphemia Allen's Old Maid's Home, where Mabel McPhaul, Lilly Merle Matthews, and Eleanor Strickland teach toe dancing. Among our representatives at Allen's are: Elsie Windham, Jimmy McArthur, Flora Privett, Katie Jane Taylor, Ida Townsend, Rosa Lee Bullock, and Bessie Narron.

Blanche White, Vilmer Hooper, and Ernestine Willis teach in Hoid (Hyde) County, but Margaret Walker and Annie Turnage are professors at Columbia, where Armatha Fowler and Ethel and Leola Denning are assisting the Dr. Thorndike in his experiments on potato bugs. Bille Vogler is now occupying the seat of Applied Psychology at Columbia, but it is hoped that she will soon accept the seat of applied electricity at Sing Sing.

Annie Lee Jones isn't exactly teaching, she is just training fleas and gnats for Barnum and Bailey. With the same company are: "Cal" Parker, a tight rope walker; Alma King, a fortune teller; and Reba Pickett, known as the girl on the flying trapeze. Ruth and Sara Carr are billed in a twin sister act—except they ain't.

I see in a newspaper that Mary Della Strickland is champion roller skater, Lula Eby is a parachute jumper, the Grace twins tied in the hundred yard dash, and Frances Corbitt is the greatest tiddly-winks referee in the world. At present she is refereeing a championship game between Lou Eloise Barefoot and Freda Britt. Mary Hoover Barnes recently crossed the Atlantic in a rowboat, and Ann Brooks McGougan is a deep sea diver of note. Carrie Gaynor's eyes stare at us from a Mabelleine ad, Ruby Branch's from a "Believe It Or Not" section, and "Bea" Hammond's from behind horn-rimmed spectacles. Mina Grey Boyette and Margaret Watson, kidnapping of Mary Hazel Tyson, a storming evangelist.

Chessie Edmunson is Dean of Women at Vassar, where "Gooder" Fulton coaches athletics. Dorothy Kinlaw and Alma Winslow are missionaries to the South Sea Islands. Hazel Overman expects to sail on the T. S. S. Plutarch (of which Martha Bunn Arrington is skipper) and join them there. Hazel Baker, "Du" Bardin, and "Lib" Gurley are conducting tent revivals in Central Africa. Mollie Cartwright, Rebecca Pitt, Lucy McBride, and Lillian Womble take up collection while Eloise Bone sings tenor and Louise Owen and Inez Ellington sing bass. This is for the purpose of searing the savages into submission.

Dr. Ruth Strickland and Dr. Mavis Proctor are employed at Dix Hill, where Jane and Lee Ella Sessoms inspect apricots. All inferior qualities found are sent to E. C. T. C. Members of the E. C. T. C. Alumnae Association of Dix Hill inmates are: Rebecca Taylor, Hazel Gaynor, Carrie Grey, Margaret Thigpen, and Kathleen Smith. Rebecca Taylor is president of this chapter. In the ward for the deaf is Mattie Moye Gaylord. No, it isn't deaf. It is just that here her incessant talking can't bother anyone.

Margaret Cameron and Florence Wells are owners of "Danceville" a night club managed by Elizabeth Wagner. Alice Tyndall, Frances Hedgepeth, Carrie Jones, Alma Lewis, and Thelma Holt are Dime-a-Dunce girls. Nancy Rose Barnes, Hazel Tyndall, Christine Lindsey, Margaret Humphery, Verdie Barrow, and Annie Mae Strickland are the Noramora sextet, which is far superior to the old Floradora. However, it is Hattie Hudgins who has made the club famous with her fan and scarf dances.

Under the Dome I see Louise Lowery (She learned about government from Beecher, and Louise Potter). They aren't senators—just pages.

Marietta Peele pilots a peanut stand in Pitt County. She sells the nuts to Sylvia Knowles and Cleo Lewis, who use them in the cross country races in which Mavis Kinlaw, Doris Jenkins, and Mary compete. The prizes are awarded by Ina Tatum, a famous prima donna.

Jennie Green Taylor and Merle Sasser, old maids that they are, are in Timbuctu explaining the Einstein theory to the natives. Hazel Tart is in a bakery in the same city.

Helen Strickland is an auctioneer. She always SINGS the "Going, Going, Gone."

Maribland Albritton was the belle of the recent "Blows Arts Ball," which she attended in company with her old pals, Elma Joyner and Sallie Lee Brewer, who have gone Bohemian.

Treva Reynolds, Melrose Gardner, and Polly Melvin are sitting alone together in the middle of the Sahara desert eating their words.

Just as I saw myself in the pool the frog jumped in, causing ripples in the water. When the ripples had died away I could see nothing but my own reflection in the pool. Looking up I saw the old frog in exactly the place in which he had sat for years. . . .

Tune: "Clayton's Grand March"

*Oh, Emerson, Society,
 Dear old White and Blue!
 For you our hearts beat merrily
 As we sing this song to you.
 For when we see our colors there,
 Blue and White, everywhere,
 We know that they mean only you,
 And all you hold so true.
 So here we are the Emersons,
 Boosting for our clan.
 Oh, Emerson! Oh, Emerson!
 For you we will always stand!*

BUILDERS DREAMS

VISIONS created by the imagination precede the achievement of any really great accomplishment. The ability to weave the threads of imagination into the finished fabric is equally important.

It has been the privilege of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY to cooperate with the Tecoan staff in creating their vision into material form.

Such cooperation is one of the "visions" which precede the building of a successful business, and is a part of the working policy of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY.

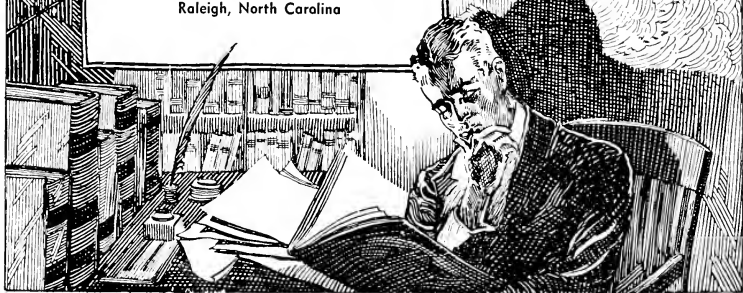

To those Staffs desiring complete cooperation, we offer unexcelled service.

You, too, may be proud of your annual.
